

BRYAN "SHAKES" WITH ROOSEVELT

A Warm Greeting Between Rough Rider and Silver
Leader at Chicago.

LABOR MEN IN PARADE

Over Thirty Thousand Working Men in Line in Windy
City Today.

SPEECHES BY THE NOTABLES

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Defiance dramatized by marching regiments, an army of 35,000 workmen tramped up Michigan avenue today to show the world that a long and desperate lockout had not scotched the Chicago trades unionism. Seven months of idleness behind them and a lack-work winter ahead, the Chicago labor unions rallied their strength for their annual demonstration today and put more men in line than in any year of the last decade, despite the fact that 10,000 brother craftsmen have been forced out of town in search of work and bread. Nearly 29,000 men followed the flags in 1899. Half as many more were in the march today.

Big Politicians as Reviewers

William Jennings Bryan, Theodore Roosevelt, Senator William E. Mason, Charles A. Towne and a dozen more politicians of national fame reviewed the parade of the toilers from the loggia of the Auditorium hotel in the morning, and after a "truce flag" luncheon spoke to the workers in Electric park in the afternoon.

Gov. Roosevelt started the spellbinding at 2 p. m. and Col. Bryan will mark the high tide of the oratory with his speech at 4 p. m. The lesser men will fill in the gaps and match their eloquence against the drawing powers of the field and track games, merry-go-rounds, sideshows and shooting galleries which will furnish amusement to the crowds at the usual rates. John F. Finerty is scheduled to bring the political symposium to an end at 8 p. m. The parade dodged the G. A. R. grandstand in Michigan avenue because it was erected by non-union labor, winding over to Wabash avenue through Eldridge place and back into the court of honor through Hubbard place. It started from 18th street at 9:30 a. m. and reached the reviewing stand at the Auditorium hotel at 10 a. m.

Bryan and Teddy Shake
Thousands of people lined the sidewalks and the jam in the neighborhood of the Auditorium hotel where the reviewing stand for Bryan and Roosevelt stood was tremendous.

Bryan was the first to make his appearance accompanied by Mayor Harrison, the democratic candidate for Governor Alschuler and was greeted with great cheering.

Later Roosevelt made his appearance with an equally warm reception. He did not see Bryan immediately, but later caught the presidential candidate's eye. He extended his hand and a warm "shake" followed, at which the passing toilers and the spectators howled continuously for several minutes.

As the division passed cheers followed for both Bryan and Roosevelt, the rough rider saluting with military precision and Bryan bowing with his well known grace.

Upon the disbandment of the parade the crowd rushed for Electric park where a time honored picnic was held and addresses made by Bryan and Roosevelt, Harrison, Alschuler and Yates.

Scheme to "Frost" Teddy
As the marchers passed it became evident that Roosevelt's popularity had waned or something was amiss, for the cheering was mostly devoted to Bryan. Prominent republicans said it was a scheme to "frost" the governor.

Our Duty to Wage Workers
In his speech at Electric Park Roosevelt, the first on the list, began by declaring that the foundation of the whole social structure rests upon the duty of patriotism to wage-workers. This was doubly the case now, for in addition to each man's individual action we have learned a great lesson for acting in combination.

Roosevelt reviewed at length strides in labor legislation in New York. "No other man," continued the governor, has been benefitted so much as the wage-worker by a growth in prosperity during these years."

He concluded by saying that performance should square with promise if good work is to be done in the industrial or political world.

Great Parade in St. Louis
St. Louis, Sept. 3.—[Special Telegram]—For the first time in the history of labor here all unions in the city suburbs united in a grand parade, resulting in forty thousand men in line. All business is suspended.

Cincinnati, Sept. 3.—[Special Telegram]—Fifteen thousand men marched in the labor parade. The weather was threatening.

In New York and Washington.
Washington, Sept. 3.—[Special Telegram]—Beyond closing all departments and releasing thirty thousand government employees there was no special observance of Labor day here.

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special Telegram]—The usual Labor day parade was not held today, trade organizations patronizing near-by summer resorts. Business of all kinds was practically suspended.

PLAGUE GAINING IN GLASGOW

One New Death and Total of Ninety-Three Cases Reported.

Glasgow, Sept. 3.—Another death, supposed to be due to the bubonic plague, occurred here today. Ninety-three cases of the disease are now under observation.

Glasgow, Sept. 3.—The American consul here has cabled to his government regarding the plague outbreak in the city. It was decided to send Dr. Thomas of the United States Marine hospital service to make observations. He arrived from London. The consul notified the Washington government that as soon as the plague was officially notified to him, and he made notes to that effect on the bills of health of outward-bound vessels, it would be for New York and other ports to take steps.

Probably the first steamer to come under observation as sailing from Glasgow would be the City of Rome, which left before the plague was discovered. Concerning the bills of health issued to the Anchoria and Californian on Aug. 30, the consul could not tell what would happen on the other side.

Another case of the disease, the victim being an 18-year-old youth, has been admitted to the Belvidere hospital. This makes twelve cases under treatment. There has been one death.

OUTBREAK IN BOHOT FIGHT NEAR CARMEN

Washington, Sept. 3.—[Special Telegram]—Gen. MacArthur cables from Manila the following: "Gen. Hughes reports an outbreak in Bohot. First Lieutenant LeVack of the Forty-fourth volunteer infantry reports an engagement near Carmen at Bohot. Our loss in killed was one, wounded, six. The enemy's loss in killed was one hundred and twenty. Have not received further details."

WATCH VERMONT ELECTION RESULTS

Result of the Voting in the Green Mountain State an Index to November Contest.

Burlington, Vt., Sept. 3.—The eyes of the nation are on Vermont. The result of the election in this state tomorrow will be significant. It is the straw that will tell which way the wind is blowing.

If the republican majority should be light the democrats of the country will consider it an omen of good, while, on the other hand, should the majority be heavy, the country will take it as an indication that McKinley will sweep the land.

It is contended that a republican majority of more than 30,000 in Vermont will be a sure sign that Bryan will meet defeat. Should the republicans have less than 30,000 votes to spare the result of the coming national election will remain in doubt until November.

CHANGES RELIGION TO GET HIS BRIDE

Milwaukee Man Renounces Christianity to Be Received into the Church of His New Wife.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 3.—Colgate Baker, a newspaper man, yesterday afternoon renounced christianity and embraced Judaism in order to make good a promise to Miss Freda Gallick, an actress, to whom he was married according to the Jewish rites. Miss Gallick and Mr. Baker were married May 20 last by Court Commissioner John F. Harper, and at the time Mr. Baker promised that at some future time they would be married according to the Jewish church.

He learned afterwards that to do this he would have to embrace the doctrines of Judaism. He was instructed by Rabbi Caro and before the officers of the Temple B'nai Jeshurun he renounced his belief in all other creeds and declared his allegiance to the doctrine of Judaism. He was then married again, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Markham of Chicago, the latter a sister of the bride, being the witnesses.

Mrs. Baker is the daughter of Mrs. Fanny Gallick of San Francisco, and last season was leading lady for Robert Downing. She was a member of the Davidson Theater stock company this summer. Mr. and Mrs. Baker left last night for New York.

Lightning Claims Victims.
Evansville, Ind., Sept. 3.—During the storm John Gladish, a Pike county farmer, while standing under a tree, was struck by lightning and killed. His body was terribly burned.

Miss Lizzie DeBoney of this city was struck by lightning as she stood near the telephone and will die.
Mrs. Ann Jackson also received a severe shock.

PLANNING FOR THE BADGER CAMPAIGN

GEN. BRYANT SECURING A HOST OF GOOD SPEAKERS.

Senator Spooner To Make Over a Dozen Addresses—Speaker Henderson to Be Here in October, while Congressmen Littlefield and Hepburn Will Stump the State.

Milwaukee, Sept. 3.—"I expect to meet Mr. LaFollette at Madison this evening and find out definitely what his plans for the campaign are," said Gen. Geo. B. Bryant, chairman of the Republican State Central committee, last night.

Will Go to LaCrosse.

"I can't say where he will open, the campaign. He and the other nominees will go to LaCrosse a week from today to attend the Roosevelt meeting and the following Thursday they will meet here in Milwaukee. I expect they will attend the state fair on that or the following day but my principal reason for calling them here is to have a general conference on campaign plans. It is probable that the state officers and Mr. LaFollette will meet Gov. Roosevelt at Camp Douglas and accompany him to LaCrosse. Mr. LaFollette may make a short address there."

Senator Spooner's Plans.

"Senator John C. Spooner told me Saturday at Madison that he would make twelve or fifteen speeches in Wisconsin, and if we didn't consider that sufficient he would make more. He also assured me that if we needed him while he was speaking in other states he would cancel his engagements and return at once."

"Senator D. B. Henderson of Dubuque will speak in Milwaukee and Madison October 2 and 3. Whether he speaks in Milwaukee on the first or second date mentioned will be determined by the route he enters the state."

Congressman Littlefield of Maine and Hepburn of Iowa, will make a series of speeches in the state. The dates have not yet been fixed. I can't say at this time whether President Seth Low of Columbia college will speak in Wisconsin or not."

Speakers Who Will Stump.

Some of the Wisconsin men who will stump at the state are ex-Congressman Nils P. Haugen of River Falls. W. N. Parker, president of the Wisconsin Teachers' association; Atty. Gen. E. R. Hicks, M. C. Phillips, United States attorney for the Eastern district, and D. F. Jones, attorney for the Western district; Bryan J. Castle of the State Land office, Attorney Long of Prairie du Chien. In addition to these a large number of other Badger orators will speak, many of them at county fairs. Owing to the fact that many of the fairs are held at the same time, Mr. LaFollette will probably be able to attend only a few, Gen. Bryant said.

TUTTLE NAMED FOR GOVERNOR

Complete State Ticket Nominated by the Milwaukee Social Democrats Yesterday—Platform

Milwaukee, Sept. 3.—The social democrats held a state convention yesterday afternoon and nominated the following ticket:

Governor—Toward Tuttle of Milwaukee.
Lieutenant Governor—George Dick of Michigott.
Secretary of State—Charles C. Meier of Sheboygan Falls.
State Treasurer—John Doerflinger of Milwaukee.
Attorney General—Richard Elsner of Milwaukee.
Superintendent of Public Instruction—August F. Buetow of Racine.
Railroad Commission—Frank Ellis of Monroe.
Commissioner of Insurance—Max Goeres of Kiel.

The platform recites that discontent is rapidly increasing among the working people for the unusual reasons which are duly set forth and then makes demand for a remedy in the form of a normal working day, which shall not exceed eight hours; a law against the employment of children under sixteen years of age in factories; compulsory education of children under 16 years of age with public assistance in the shape of meals, clothing, etc., whenever necessary; the maintenance of such pupils over sixteen years of age who are adjudged to be fitted for further education; school books and utensils to be furnished free; the repeal of all pauper and tramp laws; the legal incorporation of trades unions; the state to insure the property of farmers against fire, hail, etc.; an employers liability law; free administration of law and legal assistance to all citizens and compensation to persons imprisoned unjustly; a graduated income tax to meet all public expenses which are to be met by taxation, universal suffrage without distinction of all adults; the imperative mandate for legislators and proportionate minority representation; the senate and the veto power of the governor to be abolished.

Painter Named His Terms.
When Benjamin Constant, the celebrated French painter, painted a portrait of Leo XIII. and presented it to him, the Pope asked the painter to name his own present in exchange. M. Constant requested that the Pope give him the soutane worn by him during the religious ceremonies of holy week.

ENGLAND ANNEXES THE BOER REPUBLIC

TRANSVAAL IS MERGED INTO THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

Kruger and Steyn Are Reported To Be Still in Flight—Burghers Capture British Soldiers Who Are Afterwards Retaken—Closing Events in the War.

London, Sept. 3.—[Special Cablegram]—General Roberts cables from Belfast: "Under the provisions of Her Majesty's warrant of July 4, I have this day issued a proclamation announcing that the Transvaal will henceforth form a part of Her Majesty's dominions."

De Wet Makes a Reappearance.

General Christian de Wet, according to the Daily Mail's Cape Town advices, is reported to have appeared again along the railway near Winburg road.

Kruger and Steyn at Barberton

Pretoria, Sept. 3.—Presidents Kruger and Steyn have gone to Barberton. It is believed that they are preparing for flight. The general opinion is that the war is near the end, but, should the Boers construct strongholds in the bush, on the veldt, or elsewhere and begin a system of raids the British would require further large supplies of horses.

Boers Continue Forward Movement.

General Buller moved fourteen miles northwestward along the Lydenburg road and crossed Crocodile river to Bradfontein. He found the Boers concentrating in the Crocodile mountains.

Boers Break Through the British Line

A force of Boers under Commandant Theron broke through the British lines and captured and burned a supply train at Klip river station, taking thirty-five prisoners. Brabant's horse proceeded thither, recaptured all the prisoners, and drove the Boers into the hills.

Colonel Plumer dispersed a small commando under Commandant Pretorius east of Pinnar's river, capturing twenty-six Boers, a number of wagons, and a quantity of cattle and rifles.

Boers to Keep Up the War

Berlin, Sept. 3.—Dr. Leyds, the Transvaal's diplomatic representative, spent yesterday in Berlin. He looked somewhat dejected, but assured those with whom he talked that the Boers will continue the struggle, hoping that some turn of the world's politics will help their cause.

BOTHAS' TRAIL AGAIN LOST

Not Known Whether He Went Eastward or Northward.

New York, Sept. 3.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: "Lord Roberts' dispatches show that the British are getting a firm hold on the Delagoa Bay railway. Sir Redvers Buller's mounted troops have reached Noot Gedacht, where nearly 2,000 British prisoners, who were confined by the Boers, have been released."

"It is uncertain whether the main body of Gen. Botha's army is retiring east or north toward Lydenburg."

"In the former case the end of the campaign should be close at hand, otherwise guerrilla operations may be further prolonged. Meanwhile a little more fighting, probably on a small scale, is reported from the Orange River colony, near the Basuto frontier, which shows that resistance is not entirely stamped out, even in that quarter."

"President Kruger, with some of his chief officials, is at Pilgrim's Rest, in a wild, mountainous district northeast of Lydenburg."

London, Sept. 3.—The following dispatch has been received at the war office from Lord Roberts:

"Belfast, Aug. 31.—About 1,800 British prisoners released at Noot Gedacht have reached French and Polecarew. They are badly clothed and some are said to be half starved. Ammunitions are out picking up many of the sick and weakly ones. The captured officers are reported to have been taken to Barberton. Some of them escaped, including the earl of Leitrim, and Viscount Ennismore. The prisoners report that Kruger, Steyn, Botha, Lucas Meyer and Schalkburg left Noot Gedacht Aug. 29 for Neispruit. The Boers seem to be scattering."

ANDREE'S BUOY IS FOUND.

Message Written on Day Explorer Started for North Pole.

Stockholm, Sept. 3.—Andree's fourth buoy has been found. In a message telegraphed here from Skjervoe, Norway, Capt. Grendahl says:

"Andree's buoy No. 4 has been found here and contains the following:

"July 7, 10 p. m.—Greenwich. Our voyage gone well so far. Are now at an altitude of 250 meters. Original direction, north 10 degrees east; compass undeviation. Later north 45 degrees east; compass undeviation. Four carrier pigeons dispatched. They are flying west. We are now over ice, which is very rugged. Weather splendid the whole time. In excellent spirits."

"Andree."
"Strindberg."
"Frenkel."

"Above the clouds; fine; 7:45 Greenwich mean time."
This message was placed in the buoy on the evening of the day when Andree set out three years ago in his balloon in quest of the north pole.

Inventor Will Send an Automaton Across the Continent.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 3.—For nine years Louis Phillip Perew of Tonawanda labored with his body and his brain at a huge undertaking. Now the work is finished and he has a graven image, made of wood and metal in the likeness of man, and it walks. In a few days it will leave New York for San Francisco. Seven feet five inches high, of excellent proportions, this mechanical man is to every appearance a human being. He is well formed, of heroic stature, and has a dignified military carriage. He has a quick step of the perfect heel and toe walker. His features are of the typical American and so natural that one would imagine them of natural flesh instead of aluminium. He is dressed in the height of fashion, in a white duck outing suit and cap of the latest shape.

Eyes of perfect blue roll in the head and gaze upon those who surround him, putting a feeling in the awed spectator that half convinces him that the automaton is something more than a mechanical construction.

In making a trial to demonstrate the mechanical perfection of his automaton Mr. Perew placed an obstruction in the path of the approaching giant. With eyes turning in their sockets the huge man seemed to discern the act of the inventor. When near the obstruction it stepped upon the obstruction and down to the floor again with ease. Corners of the hall were turned just as successfully.

It is expected that a number of similar devices will soon be made which will walk about the country to advertise the pan-American exposition. The mechanical man holds in his hands the ends of two chains. The other ends of these chains will be attached during the long transcontinental journey to an automobile.

ROOSEVELT MEETS BRYAN IN CHICAGO

REVIEW THE LABOR DAY PARADE AND MAKE SPEECHES.

Immediately After the Meeting They Are to Leave on a Long Itinerary—Roosevelt Goes Through the West and Bryan Over the East—Both Fit for Tour.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Theodore Roosevelt and W. J. Bryan came to Chicago yesterday afternoon to give their respective political parties an even start, as it were, in the quadrennial race for control of the national government.

Both stood in the Auditorium balcony this morning and reviewed the Labor Day parade. Both will attend the Labor day picnic this afternoon at Electric Park and both speak to the assembled trades unionists and their friends. Neither is expected to talk politics.

This joint appearance on a non-partisan occasion virtually marks for each the commencement of his part in the national campaign. Both will go from Chicago this evening to talk politics to all the people they can reach between now and election day.

Paths Will Diverge.

Governor Roosevelt came out of the east to invade the west. Colonel Bryan will go today from the west into the east. After this day the literal paths of these two men, upon whose public utterances their respective political parties count so much for winning the election, will be far apart as the principles they advocate.

Teddy Goes Back to New York

Governor Roosevelt will drive straight from Electric park to his hotel and from there to the train. He must get back to New York for the state convention at Saratoga. The convention has been called for Sept. 4, Tuesday, but has been virtually postponed until the next day to give him a chance to participate in the Labor day exercises here. The governor will address the convention there Wednesday, jump on a train immediately and start on a forty-five day stumping tour of western, northwestern and middle states.

Bryan Goes to Maryland

Mr. Bryan will drive from Electric Park after his speech straight to his hotel, and then then to the railroad station to take a Baltimore & Ohio train for Cumberland, Md. He will speak there Tuesday evening. The following two days he will tour West Virginia under the direction of the state committee there, ending with a meeting at Harper's Ferry Thursday night.

Thence he will return to Chicago, and next Saturday will attend the democratic picnic at Milwaukee. Nothing is yet known of his duties for the following week except that he will speak at Fort Wayne, Ind., September 12, open the Ohio state campaign with former Governor Pattison of Pennsylvania at Columbus, Ohio, September 14, and speak in St. Louis September 15 under the auspices of a political association of commercial travelers.

Long Aqueduct Proposed.

There is a plan now before the Italian parliament for providing the three southern provinces of Foggia, Bari and Lecce with water from Caposele, in the Apennines, by building an aqueduct 162 miles long, with branches that will bring up the total length to 860 miles.

KAISER WILL ACT IN FULL CONCERT

Will Follow Other Powers and Withdraw Troops from Peking

Rockhill Says the Uprising in China Was Planned by the Government.

FIGHTING HAS CEASED

NEED FOR IMMEDIATE ACTION

London, Sept. 3.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Times, wiring yesterday, says:

"Li Hung Chang has received a telegram from the Chinese minister in Berlin asserting that Germany is prepared to act in concert with Russia with a view to a settlement, and that, therefore, it is probable Germany will follow Russia and withdraw her troops from Peking."

"Two American correspondents, who left Peking August 21, with a party of forty American missionaries, arrived here yesterday. The British residents at the time the Americans left were preparing in a leisurely manner to proceed to Tien Tsin. Fighting had entirely ceased and hardly any Chinese were met."

Germans Take American's Camp.

Shanghai, Sept. 3.—[Special Cablegram]—Recent heavy arrivals of German reinforcements have made it necessary for the Americans to leave the camp at Tien-Tsin where they have been up to this time. Chafee has been ordered to arrange winter quarters for the five thousand men between Peking, Tien Tsin and Taku.

WAS PLANNED BY THE CHINESE

William Rockhill Talks About the Boxer Movement.

Shanghai, Sept. 3.—William Woodville Rockhill, special commissioner of the United States government to investigate and report on conditions in China, in an interview emphasizing the importance of the harmonious action of the powers as a measure of self-defense, said:

"If the Chinese government is able to break the concert of nations and to bring about a disagreement on the part of any government in such a way as to secure any relaxation of the joint demands all foreigners in China may as well pack up and leave."

Need for Immediate Action

"This is the best opportunity," Mr. Rockhill said, "to settle for all time the status of foreigners in China. If that matter is not settled now, the Chinese will be encouraged to persist in their present policy, and the powers will have the whole trouble to thrash over again every two or three years."

Rebellion a Government Plot

Speaking of the rebellion Mr. Rockhill expressed himself thus: "This has been a deliberately planned movement on the part of the Chinese government to expel all foreigners. The decrees printed in the Imperial Gazette prove this. The movement has been practically successful, since every foreigner in the interior has been obliged to seek refuge in the treaty ports. The imperial government merely utilized the Boxers as convenient accessories to its schemes."

BRITONS ARE DISPLEASED.

See Sinister Motive by Russia Behind the Pact.

New York, Sept. 3.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London, says: "The immediate result of the latest American note was to cause a sort of ministerial conference to assemble yesterday. Several members of the British cabinet came up to London in haste and held a consultation on the Chinese question. The ministers included William St. John Broderick, the undersecretary for foreign affairs; the duke of Devonshire, Lord Lansdowne, secretary of war, and George Goschen, the first lord of the admiralty."

Mr. Broderick and Mr. Goschen were together at the admiralty for some time, and subsequently an active interchange of telegrams took place between Downing Street and Lord Salisbury."

"Whatever may be the official view of the matter, it must be said that the Russo-American proposal has been coldly, to say unfavorably, received by the newspapers, which in this case, it is believed, reflect the tone of the comparatively few people who understand the subject."

As for the idea of recognizing Li Hung Chang, it is pointed out that the viceroy has for years been anti-English, and on the other hand, has cultivated rather close relations with Russia, especially since the good offices of that power enable China to deprive Japan of most of the solid results to which her military successes entitled her."

TO SOAR VERY HIGH.

Count Zeppelin's Air Ship Almost Ready for the Trial Trip.

News comes from Europe that the flying machine designed by Count Zeppelin of the German army has been completed, and is about to be put to a series of trials. Unusual interest is centered on this machine because of the magnitude of the scheme and because of the association with it of such a distinguished name as Count Zeppelin. An idea of the enormity of the scheme may be gathered from the fact that before any work was begun a floating construction plant was erected on Lake Constance 450 feet in length and 65 feet high. In the boat house the foundation of the ship was laid, and since then the entire construction has been carried on within its four walls. The air ship itself is 400 feet long, with a diameter of 58 feet. The exterior is aluminium, while the power is furnished by two sixteen horse power Daimler motors, and the crew consists of five men. The cross section of the ship's body amounts to 315 square feet, and the entire surface of opposition, projected on a vertical plane, amounts to about 340 feet. In construction the ship is a form of lattice-work, with steel stretching wires. Outside the lattice is a smooth covering of cloth, consisting of pegamoid on top and silk cloth below, which is stretched over the network of ramie fiber that forms a cover for the metal frame. The body of the balloon is divided into seventeen cross sections, or compartments, each of which is about 25 feet long, except two of about 12½ feet in length. Each compartment contains an inflated balloon, protected from rubbing against the metal walls by a covering of ramie fiber. In front and at the rear of the ship, both above and below, are steering gears, and at the sides are two pairs of four-bladed screw propeller three and a half feet in diameter. The advantage of the Zeppelin system of cells, here put into practice for the first time, is in this case made apparent; for in the event of a material increase in weight the length of the ship offers a steadiness not to be obtained in any other form of construction. The escape of gas is also confined to small spaces. Close below the air ship, and closely fitted to it, forming a keel, is a gallery 280 feet long, with aluminum gables. This carries, besides the crew of five men, two sixteen horse power Daimler motors and ninety quarts of benzine, calculated to last ten hours. The combined weight of the motors amounts to 1,430 pounds, the hourly consumption of benzine being 26 pounds. As a result of its 11,300 square yard gas supply Count von Zeppelin's invention possesses a carrying capacity of a corresponding measurement. According to the calculations of the builder, Engineer Kubler, the entire weight of the ship, including the crew, does not exceed ten tons, notwithstanding in length it measures the size of an ordinary ocean greyhound. Included in this figure is a water ballast of one and a half tons. Practical experiments with the motor in a boat on Lake Constance have demonstrated that each motor consumes hourly 12 pounds of benzine. Each benzine tank holds about 120 pounds of benzine, or sufficient for a ten hours' run. Within this time it is reckoned that with a velocity of 36 feet per second the ship would cover 180 miles in ten hours, or the distance from Philadelphia to New York and return. There is, however, nothing to prevent the carriage of sufficient ballast in the shape of benzine tanks to provide for a run of 30 to 40 hours, or 720 miles, the distance from Berlin to Rome.—Philadelphia Record.

LABOR DAY.

Labor day is a legal holiday in thirty-six of the forty-five states of the Union and in the District of Columbia. In thirty-three states and in the District of Columbia the day is fixed by law for the first Monday in September, while in Pennsylvania it is the first Saturday in September, in North Carolina the Thursday in September, and in Louisiana the 25th of November. The first state to enact a law establishing Labor day as a legal holiday, says The Milwaukee Sentinel was Oregon, which adopted legislation to this effect February 21, 1887. New York and New Jersey following her example the same year. Other states have from year to year since that time passed similar laws, the Wisconsin law being enacted April 19, 1893. The agitation for Labor day began several years before the legislatures of the different states made it a legal holiday. In September 1882, the first Labor Day parade took place in New York city. In 1884, the Knights of Labor passed a resolution declaring the first Monday in September to be Labor day and the day was thereafter generally observed by members of the organization throughout the country and steps were taken to secure an enactment making it a legal holiday. The holiday is one that is observed almost exclusively by workmen, but it is thought that it may become a day on which all classes of the people will eventually participate. Such is the view of a writer in the Bulletin of the Department of Labor at Washington, who says: "If progress continues, Labor Day which is now class legislation, will in time give way to a broader anniversary in celebration of a universal labor force based on the common achievements of all of one rank of society, but of all mankind. The cycle of change is not complete nor the social millennium at hand. A truly national holiday will embrace the whole commonwealth, since all its members by hand, brain, virtue, influence and service will contribute on equal terms to the national existence and welfare."

The general impression appears to be, however, that ex-Chinese Consul Denby, democrat, knows a little more about the politics of the Orient than Col. W. J. Bryan. Denby knows by actual experience, while Bryan only has a long range theory, and when Denby says Bryan is wrong, many people are ready to believe that he knows what he is talking about.

Mr. Bryan, we take it, is unalterably opposed to any policy that doesn't insure his election as president, and doesn't care what overtakes the country so long as he wins the prize. Otherwise, how can he explain his present attitude as to our foreign possessions in view of the fact that he claimed the credit, personally, for the ratification of the Paris treaty of peace? If Bryan believed the treaty should pass, why has he changed his mind? If he did not think it was right, why did he labor unceasingly to secure its adoption? Do the people want a president who would enact legislation that he believed to be harmful, simply because he thought the enactment would help his personal cause? What is the requirement, honest statesmanship or dishonest demagogism?

The moment that the populist party endorsed Mr. Bryan, democracy was absolved from supporting him. The so-called democracy of today is populism pure and simple—perhaps more simple than pure, however—and cannot be disguised. Why any democrat should vote for wild-eyed populism in preference to conservative republicanism is beyond comprehension.

The need of a cure for "imperialism" is about as urgent as was a cure for "goldism" four years ago. Time has shown the fallacy of Mr. Bryan's financial predictions, but his "imperialism" bugaboo is more transparent than any free silver argument.

Mr. McKinley's claim to a re-election as president is based on the record he has made. Mr. Bryan's claim is based on the promise of "saving the country" that is already safer than it has ever been in its history. Which claim do you consider the more valid, Mr. Voter?

Senator C. K. Davis, of Minnesota, likens the spirit of the democratic platform to the spirit of the declaration of secession.

Col. Bryan's predictions continue to run up against an adverse fate.

A FALSTAFFIAN TRAGEDY.

Incident of the Paradoxes Pass in Cubitas Mountains.

A correspondent of Forest and Stream, writing from Cuba, tells this incident of the famous Paradoxes Pass, in the Cubitas Mountains: We discovered the pass without much difficulty, and spent the remainder of the afternoon in riding through it and gazing upon its beauty and grandeur. It is a rift (doubtless volcanic) in the solid marble of which the mountains appear to be composed. It is a mile or more in length and of a width just sufficient for a wagon road, with a margin of a few yards on each side. Beyond this margin rise the sheer walls of marble to a height which I will not attempt to state, as we had no means of measuring, but it was a long way to the top. The margin on each side of the trail grew thick with tropical vegetation, and even in many places along the vertical rocks trees had succeeded in attaching themselves to crevices, and while putting stem and branches upward like ordinary trees, had also put vertical branches downward toward the ground. I suppose these were of the nature of roots, but they looked just like ropes, and taking it all round the walls were in great part obscured from vegetation. This greatly enhanced the beauty of the scene and we all gazed with delight upon a sight the like of which we have never seen before. Twenty-two years ago or thereabouts, in the Ten Years' War, a Spanish column of troops was surprised in this pass by Cuban insurgents, who lined the edges of the cliffs and hurled down stones upon them after the practice of the Moors and Spanish in former days, as related by Irving. There appears to be no authentic account of the number killed, but it may have been considerable. We interrogated our guide about it on the following day. He was an aged Cuban of unusual spirit and intelligence, a master of the machete and a thorough woodsman. He told us that the tradition of the massacre of the Spanish was indeed true; that he himself was one of the Cubans who had thrown the stones, and that many Spanish were killed. All this was extremely interesting to us; we had always heard of this massacre, and here we were at last on the very ground and talking with one of the men who did it. We pressed him for facts, particularly as to numbers killed. He replied in the Spanish way, "Oh, many, many." I asked him if he thought a hundred. He said probably more, and we let the matter drop for the time being. The guide bore the usual appearance of poverty and destitution, but on the strength of his employment as guide, which was doubtless unusual, he had indulged in a bottle of Jamaica rum, which he pressed on us with great liberality, and of which he partook himself copiously. After one or two tumblers of the scorching beverage had been turned down his aged throat he became more communicative, and I asked him again about the number of Spaniards killed; he now replied that it was over 200. Later, about the time the rum was entirely consumed, he was again asked, and he said "more than 300." Finally, on our return to camp, when we were so pleased with him—for he had really given us a most interesting day—that we gave him a dollar more than his price and invited him to dinner with us. This seemed to have completely warmed the cockles of his heart, and he showed his appreciation of our attention in the only way possible to him, viz., by increasing the number of Spanish killed in the Paradoxes Pass, for one of the packers asking him about this time as to the number, he replied with great gusto, "More than a thousand."

Vanderbilt System of Roads.

The Vanderbilt system of railways is now the largest in the world—covering 10,410 miles, against 10,392 of the Pennsylvania and 10,018 of the Canadian Pacific.

BOER WOMEN HATE BRITISH

Said to Keep Alive the Sullen Resentment of Burglars.

The spectacle presented now in South Africa is much like that of the early "reconstruction days" in the United States when the tales of personal valor had given way to those of heroic devotion to a way of cause.

"The men are still sullen, the women are still drunlike and dour," writes John Stuart of the London Morning Post, describing the Transvaal women about Krugersdorp. "As I have often before remarked, these women hate us with a hatred as cruel as the grave."

"Send me a wounded Englishman," wrote a young woman of the place to her lover outside Ladysmith, "for I want to watch him die." That was a common request found in letters from all over the country, mostly dated from Krugersdorp. And now Tommy Atkins surrenders Krugersdorp and addresses the young women who had such kind hopes for him in language which Mary Jane of Chelsea would think facetious. He means neither unkindness nor civility. Only these poor women are not in a frame of mind to understand his large, friendly heart.

"I am afraid that Mary Jane of Chelsea would be a little annoyed if she could see his simple overtures of peace. They are very frank, but here they are very futile. But I am going to tell you a story which shows that there is something akin to nobility in this passionate hatred by the women. On a Monday night, long after the town had surrendered, a Transvaal flag was floated over one house occupied by Mr. Phanie Koeb, who is a brother of the general who was wounded to the death at Elandsdorp. A trooper saw the flag and hailed it down.

"Next morning Mrs. Koeb, in feminine obstinacy, had another hoisted. An officer ordered its removal. She called him into her sitting room and called at him at considerable length. 'Ah,' she cried, 'You can take away our flags and you can take away our independence, but you cannot take away our spirit.' Thereupon she opened a tinkling cottage piano and played the Transvaal 'Volkslied,' singing the words in a voice that shook with age and rage. 'Pretty tune,' said the officer, 'what is it?' 'Play it again, please.' But she only shook her fist in his face. She was speechless. Poor, wild woman! If she had been English or American, she would have found a Whittier to put the blunt pathos of the scenes into jingling verse for the school-books."

Indiana Dance for Charity.

Black River Falls, Wis., Sept. 3.—The big annual medicine and giveaway dance that has become a necessity among the Winnebago Indians, as the only available method of providing clothing and food for the aged and indigent members of the tribe commenced at the wigwam of Frank Swan and will continue for three days and nights. Much money and clothing, including blankets and shawls, will be given to the poor and aged Indians. Feasting and darning and the doleful tamtams will make things lively, and a generous contribution to the poor always follows.

Editor Shoots Assassin.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 3.—In a fight over the municipal ownership of the waterworks plant at Richmond, C. E. Woods, formerly editor of the Climax, shot and fatally wounded Judge French Tipton. Woods resigned as editor of the newspaper because he was not allowed to keep up a fight on the waterworks company. Tipton has figured in many of the Madison county feuds. The bullet entered Tipton's abdomen and penetrated his body. Tipton first struck Woods from behind.

Five Persons Are Injured.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 3.—An incoming passenger train on the Wabash ran into some freight cars left on the track in the east end of the city on the Chicago Great Western track, which the Wabash uses. About $5,000 damage was done and five persons were seriously injured.

The injured: Miss Lulu Graham, Kirkville, Mo.; J. C. Vonarx, Columbia, Mo.; Thomas Lindsey, Bunker Hill, Ind.; Andrew Thom, Bunker Hill, Ind.; Kelly Vernon, Bunker Hill, Ind.

Other passengers were badly shaken up and some valuable cattle in the freight cars were seriously injured.

Buy a Fortune for $12,000.

Ishtepeming, Mich., Sept. 4.—Corrigan McKenney & Co., of Cleveland, who bought Rope's gold mine for $12,000, secured $25,000 worth of machinery by the purchase, also about $35,000 worth of gold in old amalgamating plates and 100,000 tons of tailings, assaying $2 per ton. These are being cyanided and the first bullion shipment of about $10,000 was made this week. The mine may be reopened next spring. Including estimated returns from tailings the mine has produced nearly $1,000,000 in gold and silver.

Train Kills Three Boys.

Morrison, Ill., Sept. 3.—Three children, aged 11 years, sons of R. T. Burchell, George Robinson and William Richie of Erie were killed here by a freight train. The boys were seated on the platform of a waycar when the train backed up, telescoping the car. One boy was killed outright and the other two died soon after.

Gasoline Explosion Causes Death.

Butler, Ind., Sept. 3.—Mrs. Leonard Walker of this place was fatally burned by the explosion of a gasoline stove.

Best Cheese in the World.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 3.—Professor E. H. Farrington of the University of Wisconsin has received word from Mayor Alvord, in charge of the dairy exhibit of the United States at the Paris exposition, announcing the award of a gold medal for the finest cheese product of the world. The award is for an exhibit of six cheeses of various grades of milk.

Average Total Precipitation.

The average annual total of water which falls as rain or snow in the United States is 1,407 cubic miles. This amount of rain would more than twice fill Lake Ontario. To raise this water to the clouds from which it fell would require the work of 500,000,000 horses working ten hours a day throughout the year.

DISASTROUS WRECK AT JUDA STATION

MILWAUKEE FREIGHT BREAKS APART AND COLLIDES.

Eight Freight Cars Completely Demolished and Three of Them Burned—One Car of Horses is in the Wreck—No One is Reported To Be Hurt.

A disastrous freight wreck occurred on the Mineral Point division of the C. M. & St. P. R. R. just west of Juda about 8 o'clock last night. Train No. 66, in charge of Engineer Thomas Fox and Conductor George Richardson was coming east with a cargo of stock and general merchandise for different points and one car of trotting horses from the Darlington races on their way to Kentucky.

Just west of Juda there is quite a grade and while coming down the grade the train broke apart the engine and the cars struck at it getting some distance ahead of the rear of the train. About the time the engine and cars attached to it arrived at Juda it was discovered that the train had parted. The rear end of the train had started down the grade with nothing to control its speed gathering headway with every second and attained a high rate of speed. It was not discovered by the trainmen in the caboose that it was running wild and no effort was made to check it. Before the car in front of the runaway train could be side tracked the rear portion running at the rate of forty miles an hour crashed into them.

The result was extremely disastrous, nine cars being smashed and thrown from the track and piled up in a broken mass which immediately took fire and destroyed four cars before it could be checked.

The car containing the race horses was in the midst of the wreck and was badly smashed, and was the one in which the fire originated.

The owners of the horses was in the car with them, and had just lighted his lantern when the crash came. He was thrown under the wreckage and considerably bruised, and the lantern broken, the oil being scattered over the hay and straw in the car which immediately took fire.

Fortunately he was able to get out of the wreckage without much trouble and with the help of the train hands who had gathered around, succeeded in getting the horses out of the car, but not until they were badly burned. The owner of the horses also was badly burned around the hands and feet, in getting the horses out.

R. C. Eldredge, Division Superintendent was at Darlington and a special was immediately made up to take him to the scene of the wreck. He immediately ordered out the wrecking crew from this city, who after several hours' hard work succeeded in getting the track in shape so that the trains could get by.

ACT OF VANDALISM ON GOLF GROUNDS

Miscellaneous Clubs House Trained Over the Club House Walls—Class Contest Tomorrow.

The members of the Sinissippi Golf club are much exercised over a piece of vandalism that took place at the grounds last week.

The club has been to considerable expense and a great deal of trouble to get some vines started around the house to cover up the four stone walls. In many places around the building Boston ivy and woodbine have been planted and after much trouble made a good start. Last week it was discovered that some person had cut off the woodbine and also three branches of the east end of the house ruining two seasons growth of the vines, that in another season would have covered almost the entire end of the building.

A person that would do a piece of work of that kind should be severely punished.

The events scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at the Sinissippi club's links, will be watch play between different members of the A and B class teams, for position on their respective teams. These are paired off as follows:

A. Schaller,	E. E. Fife,
C. C. MacLean,	Chas. Brewer,

OBSERVE LABOR DAY IN THE BOWER CITY

FINE PARADE AND ATTRACTIVE STREET SHOWS.

Revs. R. C. Denison and Father Goebel Delivered Addresses to a Large Crowd in the Court House Park—Line-Up of the Parade—Ball This Evening.

The laboring men of the city were certainly favored with beautiful weather on their annual holiday. The program laid out for the day by the Federated Trades' council was carried out to the letter. Extensive preparations for entertaining the public had been made and each feature came off at the appointed place and time.

The parade formed on South River street at 1 o'clock and marched through the principal streets of the city to the court house park where speeches were delivered by Rev. Robert C. Denison and Rev. Father W. A. Goebel.

The Imperial band rendered several selections after which the crowd scattered to the different platforms erected on the public streets and witnessed the fine vaudeville performances given by artists who have no superiors in their line of work. The slight of hand work of Herbert Albini called forth much applause, the Strothers brothers song and dance artists were very fine and James Haggart the acrobat performed some wonderful feats.

Line of the parade

The parade to formed at the corner of Milwaukee and North River street and marched south to Pleasant up Pleasant down Jackson down to W. Milwaukee down Milwaukee, across the river to East Bluff, up East Bluff to Prospect avenue down Prospect avenue to Main thence down Main to the court house park.

The parade drew a large crowd upon the streets in the line of march. The line was as follows:

Chief Marshal Hubbard.
Chief Hogan, Officer Brown.
Imperial Band.
Chief Spencer and Fire Department.
Speakers in Carriages.
Plant of United Brotherhood of Leather Workers and James goods in charge of J. C. Nichols, Gas Martin and Al Loeber.
United Brotherhood of Leather Workers.
Bricklayers' Union.
Painters' Union.
Barbers' Union.
Typographical Union.
Cigar makers' Union.

The speaking at the park followed the procession, Mayor Victor P. Richardson being out of the city, an interesting address was made by Rev. R. C. Denison and Rev. Father W. A. Goebel. After speaking the different games took place and were highly pleasing to those assembled.

The day's festivities will wind up with a grand ball at Assembly hall tonight.

M. H. WHITTAKER IS A M'KINLEY MAN

JANESVILLE LABOR LEADER IN REPUBLICAN RANKS.

The Wisconsin Social Democracy Was in Error When It Enrolled Him in Its Membership and Talked of Nominating Him for a State Office.

Some days ago the Milwaukee papers announced that M. H. Whittaker of this city, had been prominently mentioned as an available candidate for governor on the Social Democracy ticket. Evidently the Milwaukee Social Democracy jumped at a conclusion when it enrolled Mr. Whittaker in its membership list, for Whittaker is affiliated with the republicans. He was one of the delegates to the republican convention that nominated Charles L. Valentine for member of the assembly and his vote and influence will go to the republican cause.

As the Milwaukee papers stated, Mr. Whittaker is one of the best known labor leaders in the state. He is vice president of the International Barbers' Union—the national organization—and has been prominently identified, as an official organizer, with the labor movement in Wisconsin. He is a good speaker, and will wield much influence ere the campaign comes to a close.

Music lovers are anticipating with pleasure the concert to be given at the Congregational church next Friday evening, September 7. Prof. Andrews of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, assisted by Miss Penrose Peake of Beloit, will give a program such as has seldom been heard in this city.

Prof. Andrews is an acknowledged master of the organ and those who have been privileged to hear him are most eager to hear his matchless interpretations again. He has studied extensively abroad, having spent the past year with Guilmant, of Paris, and under his master touch the organ becomes a living being.

Miss Peake is no stranger here and is considered to be the finest vocalist in Beloit. She was the soloist with the Lawrence University Glee club last season and won most favorable mention. Her vocal selections will be a musical treat. The concert is to be given under the auspices of the ladies of the Congregational church and the tickets will only be 25 cents.

CLAIMS ARC LIGHTS DO NOT FILL BILL

Residents of Riverview Park Complain That the People of That Section Do Not Get Service.

Editor Gazette.—The residents of Riverview Park and vicinity think it would be cheaper for the city if it would do away with the electric lights and use a tallow dip in their place. We know we would have a better light at least. The lights are lighted at about 7:30 o'clock and give a sickly light for about thirty minutes and then go out again until the next night. But there is one fairly good light in Riverview and it is not hid under a bushel or is it on a hill but between three hills and gives light to three vacant lots and four residents. I think it was ordered raised sixteen feet about four years ago, but it has never been done. We know the city pays for lights for all night and why do we not get them, and those that are set too low either raised or set upon one of our numerous hills?

A RESIDENT OF RIVERVIEW.

If the residents of Riverview Park feel that they do not get adequate service they should complain to the city council. The present contract between the city and the lighting company calls for lights of a stated candle power, and provides penalties for the failure to fill contract requirements. The council can, therefore, remedy the defects complained of.

THE CHINESE HOME.

How It Is Built, Arrangement of the Rooms and Their Furnishings.

BY LUCY LAWN.

Chinese homes vary just as widely in degrees of comfort and pretentiousness as do American homes. The wealthy mandarin has a domestic establishment quite as elaborate, if entirely different, as some of our city mansions. One innovation is that the homes of rich Chinese are generally built around an open court, in which there is perhaps a fountain and a miniature garden.

The very poor Chinese, on the other hand, are content with little huts of mud, which not even the poorest American would for an instant consider as fit for permanent habitation.

Of the middle class homes Dr. Arthur H. Smith has written most entertainingly in his recently published book entitled "Village Life in China." He explains that the mysterious science of geomancy has much to do with the location of a house. Geomancy relates to the many superstitions concerning good and evil spirits which influence almost every act of the yellow race. Thus city gates are not placed opposite each other, lest evil spirits should make a clean sweep through them. If any door opens upon the highway, it is protected from the evil influences which might else result by a screen.

According to Dr. Smith houses in the neighborhood of stony mountains are built from native rocks. They are damp, dark and unwholesome at all seasons of the year. There is no provision for ventilation made in the Chinese dwelling, the poorer class of which is lighted only from the front by a single door. The most handy material is used for the construction of houses.

If there are no stones at hand, brick are used. They are manufactured on the premises in large quantities and have the same grayish blue color as prevails in the clothing of the people.

The majority of country houses are built from soil, molded into adobe bricks, which have been dried until they cease to shrink. The molded bricks are about three inches thick, 12 inches wide and 20 inches long. They are very inexpensive and also very unsubstantial. It is no uncommon sight, declares Dr. Smith, after a rainy year to see houses that have literally soaked down. Many of the houses have no wooden framework and are consequently a source of danger to inhabitants. In other districts the houses have roofs made with a frame resembling foreign dwellings.

Trees are seldom planted about the houses of the Chinese village. Generally speaking, only about mudholes is their protective shade found, and houses are exposed to the fiercest rays of the sun. Courtyards are invariably destitute of trees of any sort.

Owing to the national reluctance to erect high buildings Chinese cities present a monotonous uniformity. The architecture has been described as consisting essentially of two sticks placed upright and a third laid across them at the top. However much the roofs may vary among themselves they suggest the tent as the model.

The houses are generally built on the north end of the courtyard so as to face the south, and when additional rooms are required they are placed at right angles to the main structure, facing east and west. If the premises are large, the front wall of the house is formed by another house, a reproduction of the one in the rear having similar side buildings. This is the accepted model for dwelling houses regardless of how numerous the family or how wealthy the householder may be.

This type is somewhat modified in the cities by the exigencies of the contracted space at disposal, but in the country it is the only kind seen.

The different parts of a house are called divisions, one of which never exceeds 12 feet in length and about half the width from front to back. An ordinary house consists of three divisions, though there may be but one partition dividing it into one single and one double room. There is never any ceiling, and the roof is always visible.

Most doors are made with two leaves, projections above and below, like pins, serving as hinges. These doors cannot be tightly closed because of the rude workmanship and the unequal shrinkage of the wood.

Wrong At the Time.

It is a good thing that the Democratic party has no reputation to lose for accuracy of statement. Facts are stubbornly against them. They are wrong on silver. They are wrong in predicting distress in Porto Rico. They are wrong in predicting the doom of the republic in the event of McKinley's re-election, and they are wrong by about 1,500,000 votes in their forecasts as to the election of their candidate in November.

Ben Bolt Remembers.

Do you remember the soup-house, Ben Bolt? The soup-house of four years ago—where you who would gladly have earned your own bread.

Was forced by the hard times to go? And are you still hankering for those times, Ben Bolt?

To once again settle down here? If not, take thought when you go to the polls And vote for McKinley this year.

Do you remember the breeches, Ben Bolt, With patches behind and before? You wore them to tatters and then wore them still!

You could not get work to earn more. Would you once again dress in clothing, Ben Bolt, Through which the bare hide would appear? If not, take a thought when you go to the polls And vote for McKinley this year.

Do you remember the good wife, Ben Bolt, The children a-weeping for bread? The roof over their heads following you Until you had wished you were dead? Would you once again risk the way to your door To cause you to tremble with fear? If not, take a thought when you go to the polls And vote for McKinley this year.

There's a change in the times since then, Ben Bolt. The factory smoke blots the sky. There is bread in the house and the dinner pail, too.

Topped off with a big hunk of pie. Would you continue thus prosperous, Ben Bolt? Would you toil for the ones you hold dear? If not, take a thought when you go to the polls And vote for McKinley this year.
